

K-Love has been such an encouragement through the past few years. There have been times of despair and K-Love pulled me through it. God speaks through His music and His people. I am just one person so I can't imagine the impact it has made everyone who listens. There are no Christian radio stations in my area like K-Love and it would be a disservice to those of us who it inspires everyday. The music K-Love plays, and to hear other Christians all day long, only lifts me up instead of bringing me down. You won't find that on any other kind of station. I, and many others, won't listen to the LPFM. One reason, other than I don't like secular music anymore, is that I can trust K-Love with my children. I can't/won't do that with other stations. Please reconsider this proposal of replacing K-love.
